Master of Arts in Political Science Program Handbook

Welcome

Mission Statement
The Department of Political Science offers a general Master of Arts degree with concentrations in American Politics (including public policy and public law), Comparative Politics, International Relations, and Political Theory. Students can normally expect to complete the program in one-and-a-half to two years. The graduate program in political science is designed to prepare graduate students for doctoral studies, teaching positions at secondary schools and community colleges, or employment by government agencies, research centers, or private industry.

Purpose
The purpose of this handbook is to provide program specific information that is not found in the UNLV Graduate Catalog. Students are responsible for understanding and following the policies and procedures delineated in this document and the UNLV Graduate Catalog, as well as the NSHE Code, UNLV Bylaws, and the UNLV Student Conduct Code. Questions about policies should be directed to the Graduate College: valarie.burke@unlv.edu or kendall.hartley@unlv.edu.

Program Requirements

Program requirements regarding admission, coursework and culminating experience are found in the graduate catalog.

Degree Requirements

Students may take courses in American Politics (including public law and public policy), Comparative Politics, International Relations, and Political Theory. Completion of the program requires a minimum of 30 credits beyond the BA.

- Core curriculum (18 credits)
- Proseminars (12 credits): American Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations, and Political Theory
- Major Field (six credits not including the pro-seminar): students select one of the four fields as their major field of study
- Direct readings (six credits): to be taken as students are completing their professional papers
- Professional paper: development of an original research paper

GPA Requirement

Students must maintain a minimum grade point average of 3.0 for all course work. No course in which a student makes a grade below B will count toward the degree.

Advisor and Advisory Committee Guidelines

Advisory Committee consisting of three faculty members from the department and one faculty representative of the Graduate College (until students have formed their Advisory Committee, the Graduate Coordinator acts as students’ temporary advisor). One of the three departmental members serves as chair and, from that point, as the primary advisor. The chair of the Advisory Committee should be a faculty member from the student’s major field.

With the Advisory Committee’s approval and that of the Graduate Coordinator, students establish a program of study for their remaining credits.

Degree Program Benchmarks

Professional Paper

As students are completing their coursework, they should consult with their faculty advisor and a supervising committee consisting of two additional faculty members from the department and one member from outside the department who serves as the Graduate College Representative, and begin working on their professional paper. The professional paper serves as the culmination of students’ training and requires that students develop and execute an original research project addressing a topic of their choosing. The result of the project should be a scholarly investigation of a specific research question of theoretical significance akin to a journal article.

In students’ final semesters as they are completing their professional papers, they enroll in six credits of PSC 795. If students plan to defend their professional papers in the summer, they must take three credits of PSC 795 that summer.

Each member of the advisory committee reads the professional paper and may require revisions. In writing the professional paper, the student should follow the Guide to Preparing and Submitting a Thesis or Dissertation (available on the Graduate College’s Web site: http://graduatecollege.unlv.edu/); the department has no formatting or stylistic requirements of its own, but your committee may have such requirements.

Twice a year the Graduate College holds a seminar to explain its requirements for writing a thesis (or professional paper). The department strongly urges you to attend one of those seminars; doing so will likely save you much time in the long run.
The professional paper must be unanimously approved by the committee. After the paper has been approved, an oral defense is held. You are responsible for arranging a date and time at which all members of your committee may attend; you are also responsible for arranging a room with one of our administrative assistants.

The committee may require you to make substantive or stylistic revisions, or both, to your paper even after you have defended it.

When you have successfully defended your paper, made any necessary further revisions, had those revisions approved by your committee, and submitted final copies to the Graduate College, you are required to give the department one copy of your paper, bound in black cover.

Professional Code of Ethics/Discipline Guidelines

UNLV Graduate College policy regarding academic integrity can be found in the graduate catalog.

The Department of Political Science has high expectations of its students, among which are that you adhere to standards of integrity. You are expected to do all of your work, oral and written, honestly. You should be familiar with the statement on the subject in the Graduate Catalog.

One aspect of integrity is providing adequate citations in your written work. The department does not have one required format for citations, although professors may impose such a requirement in their courses. If the professor does not do so, you should use a method specified in a style book (e.g., Kate L. Turabian’s A Manual for Writers of Research Papers, Theses, and Dissertations).

Annual Review Procedures

Each spring term, graduate students are required to complete the Graduate Student Annual Review survey. This survey will be sent by the Graduate College to the student’s Rebelmail account. The review covers the prior calendar year and assesses student progress while setting goals for the year ahead.

Additional Program Information

Graduate Assistantships

The number of assistantships offered by the department may vary from year to year. The number of vacancies varies from semester to semester. Selection of recipients is made by a committee of departmental faculty.

Contracts for graduate assistants (GAs) begin at the beginning of the week before instruction begins in a semester; contracts end at the deadline for submission of final grades by instructors.
Assignments held by graduate assistants vary from semester to semester. Assignments are normally made in the week before the contract for the semester begins. Depending upon the faculty member to whom graduate assistants are assigned, they will be either assisting faculty with teaching or research or both. Graduate Assistantships are awarded on a competitive basis and to maintain an assistantship students must remain in good standing (e.g., maintain at least a 3.0 grade point average and make continuous progress toward their degree).

The MA Graduate Assistantship contracts may be awarded up to a maximum of two years.
