

Philosophy, Social Theory, and the Thought of George Herbert Mead

Edited by

Mitchell Aboulafia

State University of New York Press

Contents

Preface	ix
Acknowledgments	xix
Introduction	1
Part 1: Context
1. G. H. Mead, Socialism, and the Progressive Agenda	21
Dmitri N. Shalin
2. Mead's Position in Intellectual History and His Early Philosophical Writings	57
Hans Joas
Part 2: Functionalism and Social Behaviorism
3. The Development of G. H. Mead's Social Psychology	89
Gary A. Cook
4. A Social Behaviorist Interpretation of the Meadian "I"	109
J. David Lewis
Part 3: Language
5. The Paradigm Shift in Mead	137
Jürgen Habermas
6. Mead: Symbolic Interaction and the Self	169
Ernst Tugendhat
Part 4: The Interpersonal and Intrapersonal
7. The Powers and Capabilities of Selves: Social and Collective Approaches	203
Guy E. Swanson
8. Self-Consciousness and the Quasi-Epic of the Master	223
Mitchell Aboulafia
Notes and References		249
Bibliography of Recent Secondary Literature on G.H. Mead		295
Index		307

