

Ph.D. Program Admissions: Policy 3.2

All Ph.D. degree applicants in the Department of Kinesiology and Nutrition Sciences (KNS) will undergo an admissions process. The admission procedure commences with an online application satisfying all of the Graduate School requirements. In addition to the Graduate School requirements, for admission to the doctoral program, the Department of Kinesiology and Nutrition Sciences has the following additional Department requirements:

- On campus (or Skype) interview;
- Meeting with Department Chair;
- Meeting with Graduate Admissions Committee;
- Meeting with Faculty in the Content Area;
- Open Forum Presentation.

It is also highly encouraged that applicants spend time with current graduate students.

Following completion of the on campus/Skype interview, the Admissions Committee will render a decision on admission of said candidate.