2. APPROVAL OF MINUTES

Request is made for approval of the following meeting minutes:

- September 14, 2015 Council Meeting - Educational Psychology and Higher Education indicated that her department’s name is “Higher Education” rather than “Learning” instead as indicated in the minutes. Noting this correction, President Sharma asked for a motion to approve the September 14, 2015 Council meeting minutes.

Motion to approve from Educational Psychology & Higher Education seconded by Accounting. With no discussion the minutes were approved unanimously with one abstention from Social Work. Motion carried.

3. SPEAKERS

- Nancy Rapoport, Acting Executive Vice President and Provost - NR explained the role and responsibilities of the provost position. The position handles the academic affairs side of the university. Provost Rapoport also mentioned the reorganization of her office and noted that the Deans report to the Vice Provost. The mission of the Provost Office is to make academics as good as they can be. The top five pathway goals are research, scholarship, creative activity, student achievement and community partnership. Two committees have been established for research and development. UNLV wants to achieve a Carnegie research very high university. Thus said the university needs to triple research expenditures and double the PhDs graduating in the next ten years. The university is working on freeing up faculty time for mentorship, how to fund graduate students, and how to make sure research is working appropriately. Dean Korgan noted that there is a committee regarding student achievement that will allow students to care about being affiliated with UNLV after they walk across the stage. After the next round of committee deliberations they will post on the website their ideas. Now there is a link to a top tier plan and subcommittees. You can weigh in on this by clicking on unlv.com/toptier and click those links. A redacted version will be circulated so a real time reaction can be analyzed. NR stressed that the university needs your opinions. In year 1 what do we need to start and finish? We need more research space and research dollars. Our mission is to start and finish research projects and to have long termed projects.

History asked about the possibility of doubling PhD graduates. He expressed concern that the university will have to lower standards to achieve this goal of increasing the enrollment of PhD students in. He stated that for his own department once you’re in the program it is very rigorous and he worries that UNLV will open our doors to students that are not well qualified. NR says in all of her dialogues she has never once heard the phrase let’s lower the standards. She went on to add, how do we have enough of a pipeline to attract the best and brightest and keep them here with enough support to do it full time is what they are focused on. Never once has she stated has she heard let’s swing open the doors. The university only wants those 99.9 percent sure who will succeed. We don’t want to admit those that will struggle and be miserable. From a completion point of view, if you bring in people who don’t do the work they will replace those who can. They are not on the table.

Accounting asks if we are adding PHD programs or just adding to the current ones. NR says we are looking at growing new programs so that some of the split will go to programs itself but we are not ruling out new programs but they have to be really viable. Provost Rapoport stressed to the Council to email her with further questions.

- Dr. Lori Temple, Vice Provost for Information Technology - DLT has a complicated handout for everyone. She wants to talk about stuff we should know. The most important thing being how to get ahold of the help desk. 5-0777 or write to IT Help at unlv.edu. That is the most important thing. 365 days a year you can call IT help. The hours of operation are 7-11pm. There are many resources available for students. If you have not interacted, please view the handout. If you are teaching there is help for you with WebCampus, if you are struggling with tech there are tip sheets, as well as software programs. Software is available to UNLV students for free or at a substantial discount. Check out the IT website before buying software. c. If you can’t find it, write to IT Help about it, it may be hidden. Office 365 is free, Semantic AntiVirus is free and encouraged for you to install, Lynda.com is also free, you can use it if you are struggling with technology and you can see how that technology might work in different training videos. If you are teaching a class you can send students to Lynda.com as well. You can also create playlists for students, a review topic playlist for example. Security is very important. There is a red plastic thing with the website to smart computing, an attempt to make the campus as secure as possible. On that site it talks about passwords, viruses, phishing, physical security and social engineering. The red thing is a telephone holder to rest your head on the phone. It is also a quick and easy way to get you the website for smart computing. STAB is working together to decide on where the next outdoor campus wireless site can go.

- Tina Kunzer-Murphy, Athletic Director - The last time TKM was here she talked about the credit limit for getting student tickets. That has been changed. The Rebel football team won the cannon back from UNR. TKM noted that three busloads of students went north to watch the game. Displayed true sportsmanship, made UNLV proud. TMK said she remembers graduate life as a very busy time but wants to get grad students engaged. Graduation rates are up, and intercollegiate knows priorities are to graduate students. She invited students to stop by her office or email her with comments, suggestions, etc.

NEW BUSINESS

- GPSA Bylaws: Article V, Section I, a & b; Article V, Section IV, c; Article V, Section VI, a & b; Article V, Section VII, a & f; Article VI, Section I, f; Article VIII, Section I; Article VIII, Section II - President Sharma reviewed the Bylaw amendments sent to the Council prior to the meeting. President Sharma noted that the bylaws revisions are for refining the language for sponsorships and for the elected GPSA positions. These are the major articles amended. She asked for questions, seeing none she concluded by letting the Council know that at the next meeting it will be an action item.

- Proposed 2015 -2016 GPSA Goals – President Sharma stated that one of the charges of the Summer Council is to propose the GPSA goals for the academic year (2015-2016). The Summer Council brainstormed with the E-Board and the goals have been sent as an attachment. President Sharma asked for any discussion? Educational Psychology and Higher Education is curious about parking permits and designated spaces for GAs. She asked if is it a firm goal. President says the idea is that if GAs designated parking spot at a slightly higher cost the GPSA would support that proposal. Educational Psychology and High Education stated that perhaps GAs should be able to purchase a faculty permit at the same price. It would not make new signage or other costs. President Sharma agreed that if space is available, GAs should be able to purchase a faculty permit. Treasurer Thomas replied that this issue has been discussed previously and the parking committee has been working on this.

- GPSA Recognized Student Organization - Student Affiliates in School (attached) - President Sharma asked the President of this student organization, Jennifer Gutman, to provide a brief overview. The group’s constitution and bylaws had been submitted and reviewed by the E-Board. Ms. Gutman said that their mission is in alignment with the national organization. As future school psychologists the hope is to empower future psychologists. The organization is open to any UNLV student, the advisor is in the Educational Psych and Higher Education staff. They plan to have socials, volunteer events, and fundraisers (to provide funds for students to go to conferences). President called for a vote to approve the Student Affiliates in School Organization. No abstentions. The motion carried to approve GPSA recognition of the student organization.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

- Art Department invited the Council to an exhibit in the Grant Hall Gallery. The exhibit will be up through 10/16. Light refreshments are provided and great paintings to see.

- Dean Korgan talked about the Tier One Initiatives, and goals to work on faculty research and graduate positions for Top Tier. Top Tier is describing general excellence across campus not tied to specific metrics or measures. Increasing research faculty and supporting graduate students, becoming a more connected campus, to building infrastructure, Top Tier refers to the goals to set measurable metrics and achieve those metrics across broad areas. Tier 1 refers to Carnegie research classifications. The two most important features are faculty members and their grant expenditures, and research doctoral productivities. Masters and other degrees still matter, but Tier 1 Carnegie looks specifically at PhDs. How can we get there in ten years? Dean Korgan stated we need a lot of investment in graduate education, with both quantity and quality addressed. The Graduate College is doing an R2PC initiative: Recruitment, Retention, Progression and Completion. This model is called GEM, Graduate Enrollment Management. Dean Korgan added that training faculty is in progress for R2PC. She noted it’s not about a recruitment number, if they’re not great students, if they’re not successful the RPC will not be complete. How can they support students once they get here? It’s really important that students are completed. This initiative is one of the two major goals: identify and complete in a year. Every graduate department is doing an R2PC report. Dean Korgan continued with her announcement: the second initiative is doing a whole realignment process with the GA program. The university took in the first graduate students at 1967 and now it is time for reflection with the GA program - to design a GA program that supports graduate students. In January 2016 some GA’s will be getting boosts in stipends, details will be forthcoming. The hope is to offer more GA positions as well. The Graduate College will be working with departments to determine where the stipends need to increase. They are different by discipline internationally. What the Graduate College asks departments is to look at aspirational peers, other institutions and what the stipend amounts are at those institutions in your specific discipline. The hope is to move GAs up a percentage towards each discipline’s goals. Graduate College Committees will determine how this will work this semester, and will act over winter break. History noted that stipends are based upon cost of living. His girlfriend is in school in Boston is paid much more. Is that a part of this conversation? Is it realistic? Dean Korgan said surveys are going out to all grad students, one is cost of living and the results of that will help us set GA stipends and help with Federal Financial Aid. This will increase the amount of aid students can receive. The second is a quality of life survey. Both are part of GA assessment process. The Graduate College is contracting with a national company to do a report on cost of living here compared to other aspirational peers. Accounting asked if UNLV has a discipline they are known for. Dean Korgan replied that areas of distinction are Hotel, the MFA program in part because of Black Mountain Institute. And that there are other strong disciplines, she noted the online graduate nursing program is ranked 6th in the country. Art asked how the MFA terminal program works? DK says we treat MFA students like doctoral students since it is a terminal degree. Educational Psychology and High Education asked what is the flip side of raising students? What about faculty? DK says we definitely have room to grow in faculty. There is a lot of hiring going on, and there is commitment to GAs and to faculty. Our goal is to hire 20 new research intensive faculty a year. The challenge there is space. DK also mentioned the Grad Rebel Ambassador program, which is the face of graduate education on campus so students (ambassadors) can share why graduate education matters. The application is online, deadline is next Friday. DK also reminded the council to register for the Rebel Grad Slam. The event is the first week in November, it’s a great way to talk about your research and the Friday party is very fun. Resources are available online. College with most participants gets a free pizza lunch. Everyone who participates gets prizes and at the end there is a scholarship money giveaway. Film asked what the thesis is in the MFA programs, in my programs we don’t do research, how would that work? DK says it is totally adaptable, you can come and talk about what you are doing. Why you are writing what you are writing etc. Environmental Studies asked if even though he is not supported by anyone, and doing his own thing, can he participate? DK said yes, propose what you have done thus far. DK also noted the Diversity Research and Mentorship Reception, Friday the 16th, 4-6 pm and also that applications will open the end of this week for Graduate College scholarships and fellowships. Dean Korgan concluded her comments encouraging the Council to access the Grad Rebel Success Center and the GPSA Website, very informative and helpful resources. Also, Academic Time Management was held last Friday and upcoming is a workshop on applying to academic and nonacademic jobs. Please take advantage of these if they make sense to you. President Sharma added that the workshops are also available on YouTube.

These sponsorships are not for reimbursement for current or past activities, but for funding pending projects. Sponsorship recipients are responsible for monitoring their own accounts and are responsible for any over expenditures. The Sponsorship Committee has established the following priorities in considering applications owing to the competitive nature of the GPSA sponsorships:

a. First Priority – Any research, project, or travel that is required for the completion of a degree program.

b. Second Priority – Any research, project, or travel that is not required for the completion of a degree program, and Travel expenses necessary for presenting at conferences, performances, or presenting/sharing of scholarly work.
c. Third Priority – Conference or other professional development with no presentation.

SECTION II. Eligibility

Eligibility criteria include the following:

a. Only currently enrolled and officially admitted UNLV graduate and professional students who are in a recognized graduate degree or professional program may apply for a sponsorship.

b. Each applicant must conduct his/her project with a graduate faculty and/or professional faculty member. One letter of recommendation is required from a member of the student’s committee. It is preferred that this letter be written by the applicant’s advisor. This letter of recommendation should address the quality of the research proposed or the significance of the conference being attended. Additional letters of recommendation and support from graduate and/or professional faculty members can be submitted to speak to the importance/relevance of the student’s project/research.
