

Conference Registration Support – Students

The Department of Kinesiology & Nutrition Sciences values student engagement at regional and national conferences, and offers registration support and travel awards to those who qualify.

Registration Support

Students majoring in one of the department's degree programs can request up to $300 for conference registration costs if the following criteria are met:

- The student must be first author on abstracts/presentations/proceedings.
- The student must be the presenting author.
- The supervising faculty member must be from the Department of Kinesiology & Nutrition Sciences and must be the co-author.

After meeting the criteria, the student must submit a request along with the abstract, conference registration information, and a letter of support from a department faculty member to the department chair.

- The request must be submitted prior to or in conjunction with submitting to the conference.
- The request must be submitted prior to the early bird registration deadline.
- In the letter of support, faculty member must confirm that the student is the presenting author.