Master of Social Work Program Handbook

Welcome
The UNLV School of Social Work is committed to the core values of social work, which emphasize social and economic justice, respect and worth of others, cultural diversity, and self-determination. We adhere to these values in an ever-changing urban environment impacted by significant growth, changing demographics, and a growing host of unique social problems. Due to the uniqueness of the Las Vegas community and its economy, we are preparing professional social workers to respond to the needs of the region and its residents. Through the faculty and our curriculum, students are prepared to enter a variety of fields of practice, including the fields of mental health, aging, domestic violence, child welfare, and substance abuse. Our graduates have assumed major leadership roles in the growing social services community in southern Nevada, helping to shape services in response to this rapidly changing environment. The School recently adopted trauma-informed practice and policy as its focus, and has been building capacity to respond to mass emergencies, war violence, and interpersonal violence by increasing faculty and staff training and infrastructure, infusing more trauma-informed practice and policy into the curriculum, and increasing trauma research capacities. Your education at UNLV will require that you become critical thinkers, allowing yourselves to be challenged and to grow in appreciation of human dignity; become advocates against oppression in all its various forms; and be able to undertake a range of effective roles in facilitating change on behalf of vulnerable populations, including an understanding of how historical trauma and grief affects these populations. You are, indeed, entering a worthy and rewarding profession.

Carlton Craig, Ph.D., LCSW, ACSW, DCSW
Director and Professor

Program Timeline
MSW students are admitted into the fall semester and can complete the program full-time in two academic years. A part-time three-year or four-year program option is also available. The School of Social Work requires that all courses be taken in the prescribed sequence (plan of study); any changes to the Plan of Study must be discussed with your advisor and approved through the petition process for the MSW Program. All students, full-time or part-time, must complete the MSW Program within four years after admission.

Professional Code of Ethics/Discipline Guidelines
UNLV Graduate College policy regarding academic integrity can be found in the graduate catalog.

The UNLV School of Social Work strictly adheres to the NASW Code of Ethics as guiding standards of practice and requires that MSW students do so also. The full Code of Ethics is available at NASW www.naswde.org

The MSW Program has adopted grading policies as one part of its commitment to program quality and professional competence. In the case of a grade of less than C in a course, a student will need to repeat that particular course and cannot move on to subsequent classes. The deficiency cannot be made up through an independent study; the student must retake the class, when offered. Furthermore, in the process toward completing the MSW degree, unsatisfactory progress is defined as follows:

- The graduate student may be placed on probation if he or she receives one grade of C or lower in one course or when the Grade Point Average goes below 3.0. The student who receives grades of C- or lower in two courses may be separated from the program.
- The graduate student will be placed on probation if he or she receives two incompletes. The student who receives three or more incompletes may be separated from the program.

The School of Social Work has also developed a formal policy and procedure for counseling out for non-academic reasons, the UNLV School of Social Work Professional Conduct Policy. The full text of the policy follows: A student may be terminated from the MSW Program for non-academic reasons as a result of one or more of the following factors:

- The student has displayed unprofessional conduct in the University or field placement, which represents a substantive violation of the NASW Code of Ethics.
- The student has exhibited attitudes, values and/or behaviors that are grossly inconsistent with the NASW Code of Ethics and the profession of social work.
- The student's mental health is impaired to the extent that the student is unable to meet the expectations of the Program. Such impairments may include, but are not limited to, psychosis, severe depression, violent behavior, inappropriate affect, irrational behavior or other symptomatology that interferes with the student's ability to meet the expectations of the School of Social Work.
- The student is abusing non-prescription or prescribed substances.
- The student is not meeting the School's expectations for performance in the field placement. Unacceptable performance in the field placements may include, but is not limited to: the student's not fulfilling his/her assigned responsibilities for the field placement; consistent tardiness or absence in the field placement; displaying an inability to engage in a professional helping relationship with clients; an inability to appropriately use supervision; violating the NASW Code of Ethics; and/or inappropriate conduct toward clients or agency staff.
The student has been engaged in criminal behavior that has or could result in a felony conviction.

The student has given false information about him/herself in the admissions procedure or to any staff associated with the program, including employees of field placements, and clients.

The student displays unacceptable behavior toward faculty and/or students that undermines the teaching process.

The student's behavior violates provisions of the College's Student Conduct Code.

Other behaviors which evidence the student's inability to adequately handle the demands of professional social work practice, such as, but not limited to: consistently not meeting deadlines in field or academic settings; consistently being unable to manage personal difficulties so that they do not interfere with the student's ability to meet academic responsibilities; an inability to engage in self-observation and reflection; and an inability to accept constructive criticism.

Step 1: Meeting of Faculty, Student and Student’s Advisor

A faculty member concerned about a student's ability to continue in the social work program will call a meeting with the student and his/her advisor. Individuals involved are provided with information pertaining to the nature of the concerns. The purpose of this meeting is a collaborative brainstorming between the student, the involved faculty member, and advisor leading to a possible corrective action to remedy the presenting problem(s). A time line to meet the criteria is specified. A monitoring process is established, and agreed upon by faculty member, advisor and student. Procedures are:

- Meeting with student, faculty member and advisor;
- Establishing corrective actions between student, faculty member and advisor;
- Specifying a time line for completion and scheduling the next meeting(s) to evaluate progress;
- Establishing appropriate documentation;
- Signing and dating by all parties of a written agreement outlining the above.

Step 2: Follow-up Evaluation of Corrective Action Procedures

Faculty member, student and advisor meet at the completion of the corrective action plan to evaluate progress. Parties may explore further course(s) of action. If the matter is not resolved, all documentation will be submitted to the School of Social Work Grievance Committee by the advisor in consultation with the student.

Step 3. School of Social Work Grievance Committee

The chair of the Grievance Committee will notify all parties of the time, place and date of hearing. Relevant information will be distributed to all members of the Grievance Committee at least one week before the scheduled meeting. Upon conclusion of the hearing, the Grievance Committee will submit its recommendation(s) to the Director in writing.

Step 4: Program Director Recommendations

Program Director reviews documentation and renders a decision. Decision may include:

- Referral for specified services
• Temporary leave of absence
• Movement into a different major, program, or class
• Probation
• Separation
• Other

Step 5: University Grievance Committee

If the student disagrees with the decision by the Director, the student follows the grievance procedures outlined in the UNLV Student Handbook. The grievance policy outlined in the Graduate Catalog specifies that students should first direct a grievance in written form to the faculty advisor and to the graduate program coordinator. Then if the problem is unresolved, the student should direct the grievance to the School Director; then if unresolved, to the Academic Dean; and then if unresolved, to the Graduate College Dean.

Annual Review Procedures
Each spring term, graduate students are required to complete the Graduate Student Annual Review survey. This survey will be sent by the Graduate College to the student’s Rebelmail account. The review covers the prior calendar year and assesses student progress while setting goals for the year ahead.

In the MSW Program, students are assessed and self-assess throughout the program in terms of both their course work and field practicum, according to the professional competencies as defined by the Council on Social Work Education:

1. Demonstrate ethical and professional behavior.
2. Engage diversity and difference in practice.
3. Advance human rights and social, economic and environmental justice.
4. Engage in practice-informed research and research-informed practice.
5. Engage in policy practice.
6. Engage with individuals, families, groups, organizations, and communities.
7. Assess individuals, families, groups, organizations, and communities.
8. Intervene with individuals, families, groups, organizations, and communities.
9. Evaluate practice with individuals, families, groups, organizations, and communities.

Additional Program Information
The School’s philosophy stresses the importance of both sound academic education and rich practical experience in preparing advanced social work practitioners. Students are provided academic knowledge related to the theory, research, and major substantive issues in the field, as well as practice experience through field practicum in a variety of private and public agency environments. Field practicum placement is concurrent with classroom instruction and is considered the “signature pedagogy” of the program, with 15 hours per week in foundation field practicum and 20 hours per week in the student’s concentration field practicum. A wide variety of field practicum facilities is available, and students are placed in the field under the guidance of the Field Director and in cooperation with the professional supervisory staff from local social service agencies. The program seeks to encourage and accommodate varied student interests, abilities, and career goals. Close relationships between the school faculty and the service agencies have produced a rich blend of academic and community-based experience for our students in the past.

The MSW Program is consistent with the accreditation standards of the field’s national professional accrediting body, the Council on Social Work Education (CSWE). The program is fully accredited by the CSWE.
