Mathematical Sciences M.S. Program Handbook

Welcome

Welcome to the Department of Mathematical Sciences. We are delighted that you have chosen us for your graduate study.

We have a well-established M.S. program with concentrations in Applied Mathematics, Pure Mathematics, Statistics, and Teaching Mathematics (Math Education) to serve students in different areas of Mathematical Sciences. The program is designed to prepare students for a broad range of careers in industry, government and education as well as prepare them for further studies at the doctoral level.

The concentrations in pure, applied, and statistics each include a core requirement corresponding to the given area. Additional credits are required so that students can develop knowledge in a field of interest. All three require the student to either defend a thesis or pass a written comprehensive exam corresponding to the core requirements. The teaching mathematics concentration requires a variety of content courses, as well as education courses. The degree options for the teaching math concentration include the opportunity to write a professional paper.

Mission Statement(s)

The mission of the Department of Mathematical Sciences is to serve the public through teaching, research and service. In particular, the Department:

Program Requirements
Program requirements regarding admission, coursework and culminating experience are found in the graduate catalog.

Advisory Committee Guidelines

Thesis or Professional Paper Track: On completion of 12 credits of coursework, students should be ready to form an advisory committee. It is the responsibility of the student to identify a faculty member of the department who would be willing to guide the student’s thesis or professional paper and serve as chair of the advisory committee. With the guidance of this chair, at least two other faculty members from the department and at least one faculty member from outside the department will be chosen to serve on this committee. The advisory committee must be formed no later than one semester after completing 12 credits of coursework.

Comprehensive Exam Track: Students on this track should form their advisory committee under the guidance of the Graduate Coordinator. The committee will consist of at least three faculty members of the department and at least one faculty member from outside the department. Usually, the committee members from the department will include the faculty members administering the M.S. comprehensive exam.

Degree Program Benchmarks

Thesis Track: No later than one semester after forming their advisory committee, students should present a thesis proposal to the committee for approval. Upon approval, students should enroll in thesis credits and start working on their thesis. Enrollment in at least 6 thesis credits is required. Upon completion, the thesis must be orally defended before the advisory committee. The thesis defense must be advertised at least 1 week in advance and will be open to all members of the public.

Comprehensive Exam Track: No later than four months before the date they plan to take the comprehensive examination, students must notify the Graduate Coordinator. Comprehensive examination is offered once a year, usually one week before the beginning of fall semester classes. An additional offering may be made one week before the beginning of spring semester classes at the discretion of the Graduate Studies Committee depending on the availability of examiners. A score of at least 70% on the comprehensive examination will be considered a passing grade. Students may opt to use the Ph.D. qualifying exam for their M.S. comprehensive exam, in which case, a score of at least 60% will be considered a passing grade.)

The comprehensive examination will consist of two parts. The composition of the two parts will depend on the student’s concentration and will be based on courses as follows:

Applied Mathematics concentration: (i) MAT 707-708 or MAT 709-710, (ii) MAT 771-772 or MAT 717-718
Pure Mathematics concentration: (i) MAT 707-708 or MAT 709-710, (ii) MAT 703-704
Applied Statistics concentration: (i) STA 761-762, (ii) STA 767-768
Teaching Mathematics concentration: The two parts will correspond to those of the Applied Mathematics concentration or the Pure Mathematics concentration mentioned earlier.

Professional Paper track (offered only for Teaching Math): No later than one semester after forming their advisory committee, students should start working on their professional paper, under the guidance of their advisory committee chair. Enrollment in at least 3 credits of Professional Paper is required. Upon completion, the professional paper must be orally defended before the advisory committee.

Program Timeline

Students normally take 2.5 to 3 years to finish the program.

Annual Review Procedures
Each winter break and early spring term, graduate students are required to complete the Graduate Student Individual Development Plan (IDP) form. The review covers the prior calendar year and assesses student progress, and it establishes reasonable goals for the year ahead. Reported student data is shared with students’ graduate coordinators and advisors to foster opportunities for discussion about students’ strengths and weaknesses, accomplishments and next requirements, and mentoring plans so that students know what they need to do in order to progress successfully through their programs in a timely manner. Students who are graduating are also required to complete the form in order to record their achievements and since the data is also used to track metrics related to the annual productivity of all students. This survey will be sent by the Graduate College to the student’s Rebelmail account. The review covers the prior calendar year and assesses student progress while setting goals for the year ahead.

Each spring semester, a student’s yearly progress will be assessed by his/her advisory committee (if formed) or by the Graduate Studies Committee. Students are required to make adequate yearly progress towards degree completion. Satisfactory progress includes passing the recommended courses with a grade above C (and maintaining a cumulative program GPA of at least 3.0) and timely progression through the appropriate program milestones. Failure to make adequate progress will cause the student to be put on probation. Note that courses with a grade below C cannot be used towards the degree and will need to be repeated for a better grade or replaced with an equivalent course.

Probation
If a student fails to successfully progress in their degree program, their department/school will recommend that the student be placed on probation by the Graduate College. Students on probation may be dismissed/separated from their program for failing to successfully meet the conditions of their probation by the deadline provided. Please see the Probation and Separation section of the Graduate Catalog for more information.
