Master of Science in Health Physics Program Handbook

Welcome
The Health Physics & Diagnostic Sciences Department at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas (UNLV) welcomes you to our graduate program. This handbook is intended to provide helpful information as you pursue your M.S. degree in Environmental Health Physics (EHP) or Medical Physics (MP). The Environmental Health Physics sub-plan is accredited by the Applied Science Accreditation Commission of ABET (http://abet.org). The Medical Physics sub-plan is accredited by the Commission on Accreditation of Medical Physics Educational Programs (CAMPEP).

Mission Statement(s)
The mission of the Master of Science in Health Physics Program is to provide a high-quality graduate education experience for students in the areas of environmental health physics and medical physics.

The educational experience is accomplished through rigorous classroom instruction aided by computer and multi-media instruction, practical laboratory experiences, student research, and mentoring. The products of this experience are professionals capable of critical thinking and problem solving, devoted to a lifetime of learning, committed to the ethical standards of their profession, and highly sought after by employers.

Program Requirements
Program requirements regarding admission, coursework and culminating experience are found in the graduate catalog.

Advisory Committee Guidelines
Formation of the thesis advisory committee begins with the selection of a faculty member to serve as the student’s advisor and the chair of the student’s thesis advisory committee. This faculty member must have full graduate faculty status in the program to serve as chair. In consultation with his/her advisor, a student will organize an advisory committee of at least two additional department faculty members with full graduate faculty status in the program. In addition, a fourth member from outside the department, known as the Graduate College Representative, must be appointed. Additional committee member may be added at the student and department’s discretion. These additional members do not need to have graduate faculty status in the program.

Degree Program Benchmarks

Comprehensive Exam
A comprehensive oral exam will be taken by all students after completion of the second semester of enrollment in the program, covering the core coursework in the program (radiation physics, radiation transport, radiation detection, and radiation biology). The exam will be administered by the graduate faculty from Health Physics. The exam will be pass/fail. Students who fail the exam may re-take the exam at the end of their third semester of enrollment. Students who fail their second attempt will be separated from the program. Students may not defend their thesis prospectus or proceed with their professional paper until successful completion of the oral exam.

Thesis
Students are required to complete a research project developed in collaboration with their advisor/committee chair. To begin the thesis project, students will prepare a prospectus for the proposed project, which will be defended in front of the thesis committee prior to submitting the Prospectus Approval Form to the Graduate College. Students must complete the research that is described in the written statement submitted to the Graduate College. If the nature of the research deviates from the written description submitted to the Graduate College then a new prospectus defense must be held and a new prospectus approval form must be submitted along with a brief written statement describing the new research. A final oral examination (defense) will be held following completion of the thesis or professional paper resulting from a research project. The final examination must be held by the Graduate College deadline in the term in which the student plans to complete the degree requirements.

Program Timeline
The following timeline indicates key milestones in a student’s progress towards their degree. Milestones with fixed time requirements are indicated in bold, assuming a Fall term start. The recommended milestones must be completed in order, but may be completed earlier or later than recommended (delaying completion of these milestones will likely delay completion of the degree program however).

Identification of thesis committee chair / advisor and selection of thesis committee (1st Spring Term)
Pass Comprehensive Exam (1st Spring Term)
Prospectus Defense (2nd Fall Term)
Thesis Defense (2nd Spring Term)
Professional Code of Ethics/Discipline Guidelines
UNLV Graduate College policy regarding academic integrity can be found in the graduate catalog. Classes and research conducted in the program involves the use of radioactive materials and may include laboratory work. Students are required to follow all safety regulations and participate in additional safety training as required for their coursework or research activities. Continuous or willful neglect and/or intentional or continuous disregard for laboratory safety procedures may result in immediate dismissal from the program.

Annual Review Procedures
Each winter break and early spring term, graduate students are required to complete the Graduate Student Individual Development Plan (IDP) form. The review covers the prior calendar year and assesses student progress, and it establishes reasonable goals for the year ahead. Reported student data is shared with students’ graduate coordinators and advisors to foster opportunities for discussion about students’ strengths and weaknesses, accomplishments and next requirements, and mentoring plans so that students know what they need to do in order to progress successfully through their programs in a timely manner. Students who are graduating are also required to complete the form in order to record their achievements since the data is also used to track metrics related to the annual productivity of all students. This survey will be sent by the Graduate College to the student’s Rebelmail account. The review covers the prior calendar year and assesses student progress while setting goals for the year ahead.

Probation
If a student fails to successfully progress in their degree program, their department/school will recommend that the student be placed on probation by the Graduate College. Students on probation may be dismissed/separated from their program for failing to successfully meet the conditions of their probation by the deadline provided. Please see the Probation and Separation section of the Graduate Catalog for more information.

Students will receive feedback on their performance at the end of each semester from the program examining their progress and identifying any concerns. Students are also recommended to contact their advisors, the program coordinator, or the department chair with any questions or concerns regarding their progress at any time.

Discipline Resources
For thesis preparation, please use the style requirements for the Health Physics Journal. For professional papers, the paper should be prepared according to the style requirements of the target journal. If no target journal has been identified at the time of the defense, prepare the paper in accordance to the Health Physics Journal style requirements.
