UNLV Basics

ABOUT UNLV

At UNLV, we are proud to be Diverse, Daring, and Different. Our Rebel mission is to promote community well-being and individual achievement through education, research, scholarship, creative activities, and clinical services.

Since the first classes in 1957, UNLV has undergone an amazing transformation. From a dusty outpost on the south edge of town to a thriving urban research institution earning in 2019 the prestigious Carnegie R1 designation, the gold standard for university research metrics.

UNLV is accredited by the Northwest Commission on Colleges and Universities and takes pride in producing accomplished graduates who are well prepared to enter the workforce or to continue their education in graduate and professional programs. Our commitment to national and international communities ensures that our research and educational programs engage both traditional and innovative areas of study and global concerns.

UNLV is committed to and driven by these shared values that guide our decision making:

- High expectations for student learning and success;
- Discovery through research, scholarship, and creative activity;
- Nurturing equity, diversity, and inclusiveness that promotes respect, support, and empowerment;
- Social, environmental, and economic sustainability;
- Strong, reciprocal, and interdependent relationships between UNLV and the region around us;
- An entrepreneurial, innovative, and unconventional spirit.

DIVERSITY AND INCLUSION

As an institution of higher learning, UNLV represents a rich diversity of human beings among its faculty, staff, and students and is committed to aspiring to maintain a campus environment that values diversity. Accordingly, the university supports understanding and appreciation of all members of its community.

EQUAL OPPORTUNITY

UNLV is committed to and will provide equality of educational and employment opportunity for all persons regardless of race, sex, age, color, national origin, ethnicity, creed, religion, disability, sexual orientation, gender, marital status, pregnancy, veteran status, or political affiliation – except where sex, age, or ability represent bona fide educational or employment qualifications or where marital or veteran status are statutorily defined eligibility criteria for federal or state benefit programs. Inquiries concerning compliance with federal or state laws prohibiting such discrimination should be directed to the Office of Diversity Initiatives, Flora Dungan Humanities Building (702-895-5580).

UNLV is dedicated to the equality of educational opportunity and the creation and maintenance of a campus environment free of barriers that discriminate against individuals with disabilities. Equality in access is achieved through reasonable classroom accommodations and reasonable adaptation of examination and evaluation procedures.

Dean's Welcome

Welcome to the William F. Harrah College of Hospitality at UNLV — the top-ranked hospitality management program in the country!

As the dean of this great college, I am profoundly grateful for the opportunity to lead this esteemed institution while nurturing the bright minds that call this college home.

Here at the College of Hospitality you will enjoy a rich combination of classroom theory and hands-on experience. You will also be given the space and the tools to be you. That is why our students have the option of tailoring their education to their own interests, whether it be in hotel operations, restaurants management, events and entertainment, gaming, or another sector. Students can also find their niche by getting involved in one or more of our hospitality-focused student organizations, which celebrate different aspects of the industry.

We understand that college journey can feel overwhelming at times, so we're committed to providing you with highly personalized support, from the time you step into Hospitality Hall to the time you walk across the graduation stage. We are only successful if you are successful.

With your bachelor's degree in hand, you will enter the workforce highly-practiced and ready to embrace your position alongside thousands of distinguished alumni who represent the very best of the best in the hospitality industry today.

We are so excited to join you on your academic adventure! If you have any questions or need any assistance, please reach out or visit me in the Dean's Office on the fourth floor of Hospitality Hall.

Go Rebels!

About Our College

COLLEGE HISTORY

UNLV's hotel management program began in 1967 as part of the Business College and in 1969 was formally established as the College of Hotel Administration. In 1989, the college was officially named for the gaming pioneer, William F. Harrah. In 2017, 50 years after our program began, the college officially changed its name to the College of Hospitality embracing all sectors of hospitality including gaming, lodging, entertainment, restaurants, golf, tourism, and hotel development.

With the generous support of industry partners, Hospitality Hall opened in 2018. Spacious common areas, advanced technology, and flexible classrooms provide the ideal setting for students to master both the theoretical and practical elements of the hospitality industry. Special features of this 93,500 square foot facility including state-of-the-art kitchen, student-run café, PGA Golf Management learning center, and function space overlooking the Las Vegas Strip.

COLLEGE HIGHLIGHTS

The College of Hospitality provides students an opportunity to study hospitality management in one of the world's leading hospitality-focused settings.

We believe that partnering with industry is key to our students' success. Each year the college organizes nearly 600 internships, welcomes more than 100 national hospitality brands for recruitment events, and pairs an average of 175 industry mentors with students. These crucial relationships provide students with an applied educational foundation and help build careers.

UNDERGRADUATE PROGRAM ORGANIZATIONAL STRUCTURE

The College of Hospitality has over 80 full-time faculty and staff members and close to 40 adjunct faculty (part-time instructors) here to support your educational journey. Access the link below for the college's faculty and staff directory.

Degree Information

BACHELOR OF SCIENCE

HOSPITALITY MANAGEMENT MAJOR

The Hospitality Management Major offers a broad educational approach to a leadership career in the hospitality industry. The four years of study transitions students through employee levels from individual contributor to managerial leader.

The program provides a varied course of study. In addition to the university's general education requirements, students take classes specific to the industry including an introduction to hospitality, human resources management, organizational behavior, guest experience, law, operations management, leadership, and ethics. Students also study cost control, revenue management, career development, financial accounting, and strategic management. The inclusion of 30 elective credits allows students to customize their educational experience based on personal and professional interests.

Rounding out the curriculum are senior-level capstone classes where students apply managerial and leadership skills learned in the classroom and through work experience in the hospitality industry. This approach offers prospective employers a well-rounded graduate who understands day-to-day operations, has the ability to contribute to strategic planning, and can adapt to a multitude of positions. With this expansive knowledge base, students will be ready to be considered for numerous career opportunities upon graduation.

AREAS OF CONCENTRATION

Students who wish to specialize in a particular segment of the hospitality industry can declare a concentration to focus their studies in that field. Concentration courses replace the Hospitality College electives in the Hospitality Management Major and must be completed with a grade of C or better. An internship and work experience specific to the area of concentration is strongly advised to enhance the student's career opportunities.

EVENT DESIGN AND MANAGEMENT CONCENTRATION

The objective of the Event Design and Management Concentration is to provide general knowledge and skills needed by event professionals. Students will gain experience in using their imagination and critical thinking skills to design original event experiences. This concentration is targeted not only to those who will work in the traditional event industry, but also to those who are considering careers in the entertainment, sports, or tourism industries.

GAMING MANAGEMENT CONCENTRATION

The objectives of the gaming concentration is to provide general management knowledge and skills associated with the gaming industry. Students will gain experience in aspects of gaming management. The gaming concentration is targeted not only to those who will work in actual casino operations, but also to students who are thinking about careers in gaming regulations and control, accounting, or as suppliers who will serve the casino industry.

HOSPITALITY BEVERAGE MANAGEMENT CONCENTRATION

The objective of the beverage focused concentration is to provide general management knowledge and skills required to be successful in the beverage industry. Students will gain experience in all aspects of managing beverage operations, both those that are stand-alone and those within other hospitality venues. This concentration is targeted not only to those who will work in beverage operations such as bars, but also to students who are thinking about careers in other related businesses such as nightclubs, wineries, breweries, beverage distributors, and cafes.

HUMAN RESOURCES

The objective of the human resources concentration is to provide general knowledge and skills needed by HR professionals. Students will gain experience in all aspects of human resources, such as labor relations, training, and ethics for the industry. This concentration is targeted to those interested in HR as a career track in any sector of the hospitality industry.

INNOVATIVE RESTAURANT MANAGEMENT CONCENTRATION

The objective of the restaurant focused concentration is to provide general management knowledge and skills associated with the foodservice industry. Students will gain experience in all aspects of managing a restaurant. This concentration is targeted not only to those who will work in restaurant operations, but also to students who are thinking about careers in other foodservice operations such institutional foodservice, in-flight catering, and food suppliers.

Hospitality Degree

PGA GOLF MANAGEMENT CONCENTRATION

The PGA Golf Management Concentration provides students with the academic knowledge and experience necessary for a career in the golf industry. The program will provide a challenging and comprehensive academic experience, preparing students to successfully meet all requirements to obtain Professional Golf Association Membership. Admission to this concentration requires admission to the university plus a verified golf handicap of 12 or less.

CURRICULUM OVERVIEW

The Hospitality profession is an intensely human enterprise that is built upon an orientation of service to others. Those who wish to be successful in this exciting career field must possess an essential blend of knowledge, skills, and dispositions that underpin this fascinating profession. The curriculum and extracurricular activities offered by the UNLV College of Hospitality are carefully designed to engage and inspire students to acquire the essential attributes necessary to be prepared for life-long career advancement and satisfaction.

KNOWLEDGE

The operations management of hotels, resorts or other hospitality-related businesses cannot be successful and sustainable without a deeper knowledge of the triple bottom line of our profession: (1) people, (2) profit, and (3) the planet. Graduates must assure quality experiences for the people they serve, but must do so profitably, and with earth-sustaining practices as well. The “theory of the triple bottom line” will be weaved throughout our curriculum comingled with the legal and ethical practices that guide and support the hospitality industry.

PEOPLE: Graduates of the UNLV College of Hospitality will develop the capacity to successfully manage organizations’ people, business strategies, and time in ways that deliver an unparalleled guest experience. They will learn how to effectively manage both employees and customer expectations in a variety of hospitality operations. The curriculum will deliver a graduate who knows what it means to be “global citizens.” They will understand how the dynamics of culture, politics, and socioeconomic realities impact business operations.

PROFIT: Graduates will be able to effectively manage the financial resources of a hospitality organization to maximize its stakeholders’ interests. Graduates will also learn and apply the principles and practices of analysis, including revenue generation and cost control measures.

PLANET: The curriculum will engage students in maximizing current technologies and help pioneer future technological advancements in hospitality organizations. Graduates will have direct experience with general business technologies in addition to industry specific technologies that are used regularly within hospitality operations that not only enhance the experience for people, but increase profitability in ways that are sustainable over time and earth-preserving. This will require that graduates be able to research industry issues and make effective business decisions and to continuously improve their organization. The goal of these decisions is to achieve success in all three dimensions important to the hospitality industry: people, profit, and planet.

Hospitality Degree

SKILLS

The UNLV College of Hospitality is an applied professional degree program that prepares students to enter the hospitality workforce with industry-required competencies. The revised Core Curriculum focuses on candidates developing the skills essential for success in the profession. The skills to be learned, mastered, and applied to real-world experiences fall into four domains:

ANALYSIS: Current and future business environments require managers to be able to analyze financial and operational data. A Hospitality graduate who can analyze data and “tell its story” to a variety of audiences will be able to manage a successful operation through increased efficiency and profitability. To achieve this, Hospitality graduates will be proficient with software packages including Excel and selected software packages and applications related to their discipline.

RELEVANT SERVICE/INTERPERSONAL SKILLS: Service and interpersonal skills are essential at all organizational levels within the hospitality industry. Specific skills include listening for understanding, time management, professional etiquette, and attention to detail. Additionally, higher-level skills, such as emotional intelligence, social intelligence, problem solving, conflict resolution, critical thinking, and making meaningful contributions to a team are critical to career success.

EFFECTIVE MANAGEMENT/LEADERSHIP SKILLS: Development of management and leadership skills are critical for career advancement and provide a solid foundation for UNLV graduates to become future leaders in the hospitality industry. Skills in this area include team management, developing individuals and teams, cross-functional coordination, delegating, assessing, coaching/counseling, role modeling, managing change, negotiating, and having skills in hospitality operations.

BUSINESS COMMUNICATION: One of the major managerial functions is effectively communicating with a wide range of audiences, from the front-line employee up through the executive boardroom. To achieve this, students should demonstrate information literacy, the ability to prioritize tasks effectively, and correct identification of their audience. The student will be proficient at written, verbal, and non-verbal communication for diverse situations and clearly convey their intended message. Students should also be proficient in preparing and presenting professional presentations.

DISPOSITIONS

Foundational to a career in Hospitality is a personal internal orientation toward doing one's best to serve the needs of clients, guests, members, customers and colleagues in industries such as food services, lodging, events, tourism, golf or gaming. The faculty, staff, and administration of the UNLV Harrah College of Hospitality are committed to developing and sharpening the inherent and essential dispositions of our students.

At the heart of hospitality is a desire to be of service to others. The successful hospitality employee must be willing to lead with a service heart. This person understands that a life of service to others is both rewarding and meaningful. The responsibility of hospitality professionals is to enhance lives and communities through the provision of quality experiences. In order to understand the role and importance of service in hospitality, it is vital to first understand the ways in which the hospitality profession supports the major life events of others.

- When people want to make new friends, or spend time with old friends, they come to us.
- When people want to celebrate important events in their lives, such as marriage, they come to us.
- When people want to hold informative and innovative meetings with colleagues, they come to us.
- When people want to engage in activities that challenge their skills, they come to us.
- When families want to be together to share enjoyable experiences, they come to us.
- When people want to restore and refresh themselves, they come to us.

Industry professionals must have energy, vitality, and a commitment to creating quality experiences for others. The personal dispositions required to succeed in this exciting profession are: having a passion for the work; possess a service orientation; being adaptive to rapidly changing conditions; valuing diversity; and having the self-awareness and integrity required to act with professionalism in the field of hospitality.

Hospitality Degree

If we think about hospitality dispositions as a pyramid, at the base of this pyramid is passion. A passion for service, a passion for experiences, and a passion for people. This is a personal disposition that the College cannot directly engrain within students, but through the experiences provided in the curriculum, can help reinforce or in some cases help lead students to the realization that their passion lies elsewhere. That, too, is being of service to the hospitality industry.

Working with people is most often enjoyable and satisfying, yet at times also challenging. People might be demanding or unpredictable. Having a 'service orientation' and empathy toward others is an essential disposition for success in the field of hospitality. Practitioners in the profession must be able to see the viewpoint of another, so the person feels "heard" and have their needs addressed. The desire to understand the needs of another is critical to taking ownership to improve the experience for clients, colleagues, and other stakeholders – evidence of a service orientation.

Having empathy and taking ownership leads to the next step on the pyramid – a willingness and ability to adapt to novel situations. The adaptable professional has a deeply ingrained curiosity about what people need, the ability to flexibly change based on that individual's needs, while remaining positive and constructive. This ability to adapt to constant change includes responding to local and global changes with the heart of a social and environmental steward, as well as the mind of a leader of successful hospitality organizations.

Openness to new experiences enables hospitality professionals to embrace diversity, in its many manifestations. The hospitality industry, both employees and guests, reflect the diversity of our world. Being self-aware, curious, and empathetic leads to respect and an embracing of diversity so important in the hospitality industry.

The pinnacle of the pyramid is professionalism. Professionalism is commonly thought of as attitudes and behaviors that adhere to a workplace code of conduct. Professionals in hospitality perform with integrity and excellence while making ethical choices and taking pride in their work. Successful hospitality professionals also have a high level of self-awareness that keeps them engaged in learning and improving their leadership skills and contributing to the tri focus on people, profit, and planet!

LATE-SHOW POLICY*

To provide you with the full support you need, you must arrive within 5 minutes of your scheduled appointment. If you arrive more than 5 minutes late, your appointment may be marked as a no-show, and you'll need to reschedule.

COURSE PERMISSIONS*

If you are unable to register for a Hospitality course (FAB, GAM, HMD, or TCA) despite meeting the prerequisites, please submit a Course Permissions Request Form through the Advising Center website.

Requests will be reviewed in the order they are received and will be processed as quickly as possible. You will be notified via Rebelmail once permission has been granted.

For courses outside of the Hospitality program, please contact the relevant college or department for assistance.

 These policies are not meant to be punitive, but to be fair and equitable to all students.*

COURSE REGISTRATION

Be sure to check your MyUNLV Student Center for the following:

- Enrollment Date – when you can register.
- Any holds that may prevent registration.
- Class Details – Prerequisites, course fees, class components, etc.

Typical registration periods:

- April – Fall Semester
- November – Spring semester
- March – Summer semester

We recommend you meet with your advisor to review your academic progress and degree requirements before registering.

LATE REGISTRATION

To add a class after the first week of the semester, you must complete a Late Registration Form available at the Advising Center. Enrollment is subject to seat availability, prerequisite completion, and instructor approval.

NOTE: Your advisor is here to guide you, but ultimately you are responsible for knowing your degree requirements, university deadlines, and policies.

Engagement: Hospitality College Mentor Program

The William F. Harrah College of Hospitality's Mentor Program is an extracurricular educational experience intended to accelerate the readiness of hospitality students as they prepare for employment after graduation. Students are chosen to participate through an application process.

Once selected, a mentor will be paired with a hospitality student whose interest matches the mentor's profession for one academic year.

As a student, your responsibilities during the program include:

- Communicating with your mentor on a regular basis. Remember, the mentor is taking time out of his/her busy schedule to help you.
- Educating your mentor about the Hospitality College, UNLV campus, and classes you are taking.
- Dedicating enough time to the program to ensure success.

HOW TO BECOME A HOSPITALITY COLLEGE MENTEE

REQUIREMENTS:

- UNLV Hospitality College student
- Juniors, seniors, or graduate students
- Minimum 3.0 GPA required to apply

BENEFITS:

- Insight into the real world
- Exposure to new perspectives, career paths, and company cultures
- Opportunity to network with local industry professionals

Code of Conduct

Recognize your role in the learning process

Earn respect through character, focus, & hard work

Be on time for classes prepared for the day's activities

Engage in development and networking opportunities

Lead and inspire others

Select sustainability choices to preserve resources

APPEARANCE

During your time at UNLV, you will have the opportunity to interact with a range of hospitality professionals and industry experts. These interactions will be both inside and outside of the classroom. Take advantage of these learning and networking opportunities by maintaining an appearance standard that represents your future career goals.

PROFESSIONALISM AND EXPECTATIONS

Once you join the College of Hospitality, you are expected to behave as a hospitality professional. Our Code of Conduct indicates respect for self, others, the building, the learning process, and your degree.

COMMUNICATIONS

Clear communication serves as persuasive evidence of your competence, personality, and professional style. When communicating with fellow students, professors, and industry professionals, make sure to:

- Use your UNLV address
- Start with a formal salutation
- Lead with a clear subject line
- Be clear, polite, and succinct
- Provide contact information
- End with a thank you

ELECTRONIC DEVICES

Each professor determines his/her policy on electronic devices (phones, laptops, tablets). Devices can be a distraction to all members of the class and are an impediment to learning. As such, you are encouraged to minimize distractions by not accessing your devices during class.

CLASSROOM POLICIES

Professors have varying rules regarding classroom procedures including attendance, exam/assignment make-ups, and academic integrity. Review each class syllabus carefully to make sure you understand the requirements for each class. It is a college policy that classroom attendance is required on the first day for in-person classes and within the first two days for on-line class unless otherwise discussed with the instructor in advance.

GROUP WORK

As a Hospitality College student, you will have the opportunity to work with others during a variety of group projects. As a future hospitality professional, you are expected to:

- Have respect for your fellow group members
- Communicate so group members have an understanding of the project goals.
- Ensure all group members contribute equally

Code of Conduct

TITLE IX INFORMATION

Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 prohibits discrimination based on the gender for both students and employees of an educational institution receiving federal financial assistance. Sex discrimination includes sexual harassment, sexual violence (including, but not limited to, sexual assault, domestic violence, dating violence, and stalking), and/or discrimination related to pregnancy.

Consistent with these mandates, the University of Nevada, Las Vegas prohibits discrimination in all programs and activities, including employment based on sex or gender. If you or someone you know has been harassed, assaulted, or subjected to discrimination based on gender, you can report it by contacting the UNLV Office of Compliance at 702-895-4055 or fill out an on-line form and submit it directly to the office. Available resources at the:

OFFICE OF COMPLIANCE WEBPAGE

Disclosure to UNLV employees, faculty, and instructors (including graduate assistants) of sexual harassment and sexual discrimination occurring on campus, in a UNLV-sponsored program, or involving a campus visitor or a UNLV student or employee, is NOT confidential under Title IX. UNLV employees, faculty, and instructors (including graduate assistants) must forward such reports, including names and circumstances, to the UNLV Office of Compliance.

CLASSROOM, GRADE, OR INSTRUCTOR CONCERNS

If you have a concern regarding final grade, assignment grades, classroom policies, curriculum, or the instructor, please follow the steps below.

STEP ONE

Student will try to arrive at an acceptable resolution with the faculty member in question.

STEP TWO

If no acceptable resolution is reached in Step One, the student will meet with the faculty members faculty chair (please see. Pg. 9 for list). If the instructor is a part-time instructor, please see Step Three.

STEP THREE

If no acceptable resolution is reached in Step Two, the student will meet with the Executive Associate Dean of Academic Affairs. At the discretion of the Executive Associate Dean of Academic Affairs, the Dean may also be consulted.

STEP FOUR

If no acceptable resolution is reached in Step Three, the student may file a grievance with the University.
