

Academic Department Internships

Each academic department at UNLV may have their own criteria for approving internship sites and awarding credit to students. Academic credit internships are most appropriate for upper-level students who are seeking an experience closely connected to their major. Students are not typically permitted to enroll in credit internships outside of their majors. All unpaid internships are required to be for credit.

How to Become an Academic Credit Internship Site

1. Contact Internship Coordinator Alejandro Chacon (Alejandro.chacon@unlv.edu), to determine if your experience qualifies for academic credit and for guidance on the appropriate department(s) for your opportunities
2. Post your internship position within Hire A Rebel CareerLink
3. Contact UNLV Career Services to get involved on campus to improve your company's brand awareness and increase your recruitment efforts
