

Department of Psychology

Edward Lovinger Psychology Scholarship

Edward Lovinger, professor of psychology at UNLV, taught from 1968 until 1993. Prior to his tenure at UNLV, he worked for the RAND Corporation, a nonprofit institution that helps improve policy and decision making through research and analysis and for its spinoff company, the System Development Corporation (SDC), as a member of their management team. He received his Ph.D. in clinical psychology from Michigan State University, but during his years at RAND and SDC, his interest centered on industrial/organizational psychology. His courses, such as Psychology of the Stock Market, Leadership, Theories of Personality, and Group Process & Personal Growth were very popular with the students. This scholarship endowment fund has been created by his wife, Carole Lovinger, as a tribute to her late husband.

Selected by the Department of Psychology Scholarship Committee

The annual Edward Lovinger Psychology Scholarship shall be awarded to student(s) who meet the following criteria:

1. Preference given to a student demonstrating financial need through the results of the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA);
2. Student must be an admitted, full time graduate student;
3. Student must be majoring in psychology; and
4. Student must have a 3.0 cumulative GPA or higher

Recipients may be eligible for this scholarship in subsequent years, provided they main the award criteria and pending funding availability.

*Unless otherwise noted, all students who fill out a FAFSA or alternate need form and meet the criteria for the scholarship will be considered. No other application is needed.

*Selected award winner's name is due to the College of Liberal Arts Dean's office by December 1st.