Transfer Credits
Classes taken at another college may allow students to enroll at a higher level course than test scores suggest. Advisors can submit a request for course evaluation through TES or students can submit an unofficial transcript for evaluation directly to englishcomposition@unlv.edu.

Portfolios of Student Writing
Standardized tests do not always accurately measure writing ability, so students may choose to demonstrate their preparation for ENG 101 by submitting a portfolio of their writing online through WebCampus. There is currently no fee for this assessment. Send an email to englishcomposition@unlv.edu in order to be given access to the WebCampus placement assessment, which provides more information about ENG 101E and ENG 101 and all the instructions students need to complete the portfolio.

Equivalent Courses for Non-Native Speakers
The English Language Center provides equivalent composition courses for non-native speakers. See the English Language Center list of courses at https://www.unlv.edu/elc/composition-classes or call 702-895-4311 for more information.

Course Descriptions
ENG 101E/101F Composition I Extended: ENG 101E/101F is a two-semester ENG 101 sequence that provides more instruction and practice than is available in a one-semester course. Students complete the first half of the ENG 101 curriculum during ENG 101E and the second half during ENG 101F.

ENG 101 Composition I: English 101 is a writing-intensive course designed to improve critical thinking, reading, and writing skills. Students develop strategies for turning their experience, observations, and analyses into evidence suitable for writing in a variety of academic disciplines.

ENG 102 Composition II: ENG 102 builds upon the critical thinking, reading, and writing capabilities that students developed in ENG 101. Students learn the processes necessary for collecting and incorporating research material in writing. They learn how to evaluate, cite, and document primary and secondary research sources, and how to develop arguments and support them with sound evidence.
