Faculty Affinity Groups
THE UNIVERSITY OF NEVADA, LAS VEGAS (UNLV) is home to an incredible community of talented and innovative faculty. At UNLV, we recognize that a faculty body that is diverse with respect to race, ethnicity, socioeconomic class background, sexual orientation, gender identity, and geography among other dimensions of cultural difference, benefits and enriches the educational experiences of all students, faculty, and staff.

As a university we value our individual differences. This means embracing our institutional diversity and holding equity and inclusion in the highest regard in our daily interactions. The UNLV Faculty Affinity Groups brochure promotes our institutional values and shares information about the many different identity-based faculty groups at UNLV. Becoming part of a faculty affinity group provides networking, a community of peers, professional development opportunities, and most importantly, a space for your voice to be heard. Each affinity group has representation on the President’s Advisory Council. The President’s Advisory Council provides advice to the President on important issues that shape our workplace and campus culture, and provides affinity groups a platform to share concerns.

The University conducts campus climate surveys to assess workplace satisfaction and holds all academic and administrative units accountable to improving the work experiences of all faculty. The Office of Diversity Initiatives leads several campus-wide task forces to identify campus priorities and develops strategies that impact faculty, staff, and students. Additional committees to improve diversity, equity, and inclusion have been established within academic and administrative units across campus. To learn more about what your unit/division is doing, contact your chair/director/supervisor.

Within this brochure, each affinity group has outlined their mission and goals and provides contact information to learn more and join. We welcome you to explore what our campus offers to support our talented faculty community!

The Alliance of Latino/a Faculty’s mission is to support the Latinx and Hispanic communities on- and off-campus by promoting and advocating for diversity initiatives at UNLV. Our mission also includes mentoring junior faculty and providing a support network for faculty and students. The Alliance of Latino/a Faculty (ALF) has met regularly since 2000, which makes it the most active faculty group of its type at UNLV. We have been involved in urgent issues such as increasing faculty diversity, supporting Dreamer and other immigrant students, and promoting diversity initiatives campus-wide. Although ALF began as a faculty group, it now welcomes administrative faculty and others, on an ad hoc basis, whose work and interests overlap with those of faculty members.

First generation faculty members face many of the same challenges entering their first jobs in higher education as they did when they were first generation students pursuing their academic degrees. Some of these challenges include:

- Being unfamiliar with the new environment
- Difficulty accessing campus and community resources
- Building or expanding personal and professional networks
- Meeting other first-generation faculty and first-generation students
- Understanding how to navigate various university processes and procedures

At UNLV, the Intersection serves as a connection point to help new faculty members acclimate to UNLV. We provide monthly gatherings that allow for faculty to meet, share ideas and information, and connect with others over a cup of coffee. These networking events have resulted in cross-campus partnerships for academic programming, interdisciplinary research collaborations, and making faculty feel welcomed, valued, and part of the UNLV family. Visit our web page for more information on how to get involved, access resources, or stay informed. We look forward to hearing from you!
