Success and satisfaction in any research field requires learning research and professional development skills, as well as integration into a culture of research. Studies show early involvement in skills training and intellectual socialization is critical for all students, and especially for underrepresented students.

The Office of Undergraduate Research (OUR) Summer 2019 Research Skills Academy welcomes incoming and early career undergraduates to premier research training opportunities at UNLV. Initiated in 2017, this two-day immersive and inclusive program provides an introduction to research; professional development and career training; and opportunities to interact with faculty, graduate, and undergraduate scholars.

PROGRAM OVERVIEW:

1) Professional Development and Career Training Workshops
   - Professional Development: Understanding the Research Cycle, How to Get Research Funding, Active Reading, and Crafting an Effective Presentation
