NEVADA INSTITUTE OF PERSONALIZED MEDICINE

NIPM Fall 2019-2020 Seminar Series
Location: Science and Engineering Building (SEB) 1245 and TBD
Time: 12-1 pm. Pizza lunch is provided. Open to Public

September 5  Jeffrey Ebersole, PhD
Professor, UNLV School of Dental Medicine
Transcriptomics and Oral Microbiomes in Periodontitis: Results from a Nonhuman Primate Model of Human Disease

September 12  David Cotter, MD, PhD
Assistant Professor, UNLV School of Medicine
Dermatologic disease as a model for personalized medicine: coupling clinical conundrums to investigative initiatives

September 19  Hong Sun, PhD
Associate Professor, Department of Chemistry
Cell Signaling by RTKs in Cancer and Obesity – Novel insights from a lipid-modification enzyme

September 26  Boris Decourt, PhD
Assistant Staff, Lou Ruvo Center for Brain Health
Translating lenalidomide into Alzheimer’s disease clinical trials

October 3  Joe Grzymski, PhD
Associate Professor, Desert Reserach Institute
Personalized medicine at scale: clinical genetic risk assessment on the Nevada population

October 24  Jeffrey Cummings, MD
Professor, UNLV Deparment of Brain Health
Advances in clinical trials for Alzheimer’s Disease

October 31  David Rawlins, PhD
Assistant Professor, Roseman College of Pharmacy
Will This Drug Work for Me? Your Genes May Know

November 7  Ranjana Mitra, PhD
Assistant Professor, Roseman College of Medicine
Role of CYP3A5 in regulating androgen receptor signaling and prostate cancer growth

November 14  Dmitry Korkin, PhD
Associate Professor, Worcester Polytechnic Institute
TBD

November 21  Atsushi Kamiya, MD, PhD
Associate Professor, Johns Hopkins Psychiatry
Inflamed Brain and Stress: Exploring Novel Drug Targets for Psychiatric Disorders

December 5  Seungil Ro, PhD
Associate Professor, UNR Physiology and Cell Biology
MiR-10b as a novel therapeutic target for diabetes and gastrointestinal dysmotility